HAS DONE more to help the Homeless, feed the Hungry, and find Jobs for the Jobless than could be told in many times this space.

IS DOING the work of removing from the community the burden of caring for many unfortunates who would otherwise become public charges.

WILL DO all in its power to "Help Those Who Will Make An Effort to Help Themselves."

LUTHERAN CHURCH

BODY EXPERIENCES

UNUSUAL GROWTH

Evangelical Synod Pastors Increase From 12 to 2,900 in 75 Years.

IT HAS 4,300 PULPITS

Membership Embraces Over 1,000,000—Local Churches Commemorate Anniversary.

On April 26, 1847, twelve ministers of the Gospel gathered in Chicago at the meeting of one of the most remarkable movements in the history of the Christian Church in the United States, and formed what is now known as the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other States, the church body which this year celebrates its seventy-fifth anniversary.

During the three-quarters of a century which have passed since Dr. C. F. W. Walther, the emigrant leader of the Saxon emigrants in Missouri, assumed the presidency of this synod, this church body has experienced a growth that is nothing short of phenomenal. Its pastors have increased from the original twelve to 2,900; its congregations from the sixteen that were represented in Chicago on the day of organization to 2,300; its preaching stations are more than one million souls in all parts of the United States and Canada, and, together with other synods affiliated in the synodical conference, it forms the largest Lutheran church body in the world.

The secret of this growth is to be found in the fact that from the very beginning this church was determined to accept the great missionary challenge that came from the unchurched masses in this country. With sacrifices almost unknown in these days, the first missionaries of this church blazed the way for the Gospel through the West long before the railroads pushed their way across the prairies. They entered the cities and towns of the East and, besides founding missions that today are large and flourishing congregations, they established Christian day schools for children, where, in addition to the instruction in the elementary branches, the Bible and the principles of Christianity were given prominence.

UNITARIAN WEEK

BAY STATE MEETING

Ninety-seventh annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association.

Thirty-second annual meeting of the Women's Alliance.

Twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Young People's Religious Union.

Fourth annual meeting of the Unitarian Laymen's League.

Rev. U. G. R. Pierce, of All Souls' Church, with George A. Ricker and Mrs. Whitman Cross, have been named delegates to the Unitarian Anniversary to be held in Boston beginning Sunday, May 21.

Mrs. M. M. Kallman, Miss Catherine Newton and Mrs. Horace K. Fulton have been chosen as alternates.

These meetings which make Boston each May the mecca of Unitarians in this country and Canada, the success of the Unitarian fellowship during the last year in promoting increased church membership and attendance in the United States and Canada, and the increase of power and influence in Great Britain, Japan, Holland, Iceland, Italy and Czechoslovakia, will be reported to the 2,000 men and women who are expected to attend the sessions.

Salvation Army Seeks $37,000

MAJ. J. G. M'GEE AND WIFE,

Leaders of Washington's branch of the Salvation Army.

Plans for the $37,000 budget campaign of the Salvation Army which opens on May 10, are going forward rapidly. Co-operation is being given in every quarter and results are expected which will enable the army to increase its work in Washington about 25 per cent.

High government officials are aiding the Salvation Army in putting the cause before the thousands of government employees. Secretary of the Navy Denby in a letter to Rudolph Jones, chairman of the Salvation Army advisory board, said: "I am informed, by the representative of the Navy Department, that it was decided that the best method of giving government employees in Washington an opportunity to contribute to the Salvation Army budget for 1922, will be by the use of barrels to be placed at the entrance of the various government buildings in the same manner as was done last year."

"This plan meets with my approval and I suggest that one barrel be delivered at each of the three entrances of the Navy Department Building. I shall be glad to have distributed among the thousands of the Navy Department staff and I assure you of my very great interest in this matter and wish you great success."

Assistant Attorney General R. L. Howard said: "I wish you every success in your campaign and assure you of the full co-operation of the Department of Justice in every way that it is able to consistently extend it."

Judge Willis Brown, nationally known for his work with and for boys, will address the men's society of the church on Tuesday, May 9, at 8 p. m. All men and boys are invited to this meeting, where a "boy movie" will be shown.

Next Friday the May Fair and Feast of Nations will be celebrated in the Sunday school rooms of the church.

At intervals during the evening the following will sing: Miss Esther Ceder, Mrs. Aarestruf-Smith and Mr. Johnson.

The Swedish accordion soloist, Mr. Radhe, will play folk dances and melodies from the north.

The fair and the feast opens at 6 p. m. Net proceeds will go to the treasury of the Ladies' Aid of St. Olaf congregation. Committee on arrangements, Mrs. O. L. Evenson, Mrs. Henry Kamm, Mrs. C. E. Sybilrud.

A new feature to be inaugurated next week will be the operation of a radio phone receiving set in the primary room of the church. This set, which is the property of Charles Christensen, will provide entertainment to many members of the congregation and nearby residents.

Evening concerts from distant cities and the usual Sunday services from the Church of the Covenant will be heard.

The present home for children has a capacity of thirty. Ninety-eight children have been turned away because of lack of room.

The appeal for membership in the American White Cross will be made through all Methodist Episcopal churches of the city. All persons interested in the care of homeless children are invited to have a membership. Application for membership can be sent to the American White Cross, Grant Circle and New Hampshire Avenue.

EXPECT FAVORABLE REPORT ON RENT BILL NEXT WEEK

House District Committee Members Predict Final Action Today.

DENY REDRAFTING

Both Landlords and Tenants To Be Given Audience In Last Hearing.

The Ball rent bill will be disposed of by the House District Committee today and reported favorably to the House early next week, members of the committee predicted yesterday.

Several members did not hesitate to say that under ordinary circumstances they would be opposed to the character of legislation incorporated in the bill, but owing to the acute housing shortage they were compelled to support the measure.

The hearings today will be the last, according to an agreement reached during the week. Those members who have supported the bill are confident of an overwhelming vote for its favorable report.

Contrary to rumors that the bill will be redrafted, members insisted yesterday that nothing would be done to change the purpose of the measure.

Some members of the committee would like to have business property incorporated in the bill, but they believe that to do so might jeopardize its success or cause delay in its passage, which at this time would be dangerous.

Both landlords and tenants will be heard today.

BALLOU ANNOUNCES GRADUATION DATES

Graduating classes of normal and high schools in Washington received an early thrill yesterday when Superintendent Frank W. Ballou announced commencement dates.

Due to crowded conditions in some of the schools the following will hold their exercise in the Central High School auditorium: Central High, June 21, 8 p. m.; Eastern High, June 19, 8 p. m.; McKim High, June 20, 8 p. m. The following will be at Business High auditorium: Two-year business class, June 19, 8 p. m.; four-year business class, June 20, 8 p. m. Western High exercises will be held in the Western auditorium June 21, at 4 p. m. Dunbar exercises will be held at the Dunbar School, June 21, at 8 p. m. Armstrong will hold exercises at the Dunbar School, June 20, at 8 p. m. Wilson Normal exercises will be held in the school June 22, 8 p. m. Minar Normal will hold commencement exercises in its own building June 19, 8 p. m.

pastor of W. H. Chapman, when the growth and needs of the congregation resulted in a second building of the same style and name changed to Fourth Street M. E. Church. Being large and well located, it was used during the civil war as a hospital.

In 1896 we moved to our present beautiful location at Fifth street and Seward square. This made it necessary to change the name and it then became Trinity, a name always appropriate but with a special significance, being the third time the Lord had prospered us and required us to build accordingly.

PRESBYTERIAN

Church of the Covenant—The Children's Day service at the Church of the Covenant will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Sunday school and of Peck Memorial Chapel and Washington City Orphanage will take part, each child receiving a flowering plant. Everyone is cordially invited to be present.

Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, will preach at the evening service on Tuesday, May 9, at 8 o'clock, the speaker being A. C. Wang of China. Who will tell of "The Effect of Christianity on China."

Judge Willis Brown, nationally known for his work with and for boys, will address the men's society of the church on Tuesday, May 9, at 8 p. m. All men and boys are invited to this meeting, where a "boy movie" will be shown.

WALTER HURT GOES

ON CRUSADE AGAIN

Famous Socialist Writer

Takes Up Defense of Jewish Race.

"The Truth About the Jews: Told by a Gentleman," by Walter Hurt. (Horton and Company, Chicago.)

Walter Hurt has donned his shining armor again.

That stalwart knight in the ranks of social democracy has discovered a new foe—antisemitism. The lance he wields at what he calls "the Jewish frenzy" is entitled "The Truth About the Jews: Told by a Gentleman."

This book, brilliantly written, will provoke considerable discussion. His conclusions, especially his advocacy of intermarriage, are likely to draw adverse comment from many Jews.

They cannot, however, fail to admire his insight into Judaism and his unflinching estimate of values.

The book is by no means a fulsome eulogy of the Jews. If Hurt knows their good qualities, he is by no means unconscious of their faults.

He points them out, not in a carping spirit, but as a friend.

The writer of this knew Hurt in 1918, just after Hurt's paper, a radical organ, had been suppressed for the third time by Postmaster General Burleson who wrote under the sting of the editor's by no means unjustified criticism. Hurt's paper (I think it was called the Palladium) was like everything else he has written—intense, brilliant in style and with a wealth of irony. His sense of the value of the exact word and his beautiful vocabulary, in evidence in 1918, are still more apparent in his new book on the Jews.

Socialists know Hurt for his beautiful biography on Debs. Non-Socialist journalists who worked with him on newspapers all over the continent know him for his well-written stories and for his remarkable grasp of sociological topics.

A last word. In principle we are opposed to a censor, but there are many spots in Mr. Lawrence's work that should have been pruned in the interests of public decency. These spots of pornography do not add to the story; they are not forced, they have not the breezy gusto of Rabelais or the splendid simplicity of the plain-spoken parts of the Bible. They are simply empty, vacuous, impotent gobs of sadness and bad taste slammed on a canvas already noisome. At any rate, "Aaron's Rod" creates a great thirst for other reading. You need something to take the Lawrence taste out of your mouth.

The comment on the current attitude on drugs, comparing it to the long outworn premise for the treatment of insanity, Dr. Williams objects emphatically to treatment of drug-addicts as criminals, and asks that they be viewed sympathetically, as unfortunate victims. He also urges not persecution of users of drugs, but public clinics where the addicts not only may obtain their drugs in steadily decreasing quantity, and thereby be cured of their disease, but where they will be free of the mauling pedler, who fattens on their infirmity.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES

OPIATE ADDICTION

Tells About Drug Habits and

Urges Sane Methods of Treatment.

If Edward Huntington Williams, M. D., wanted to write a non-technical treatise on the drug habit useful to nurses, physicians and drug addicts, he may have been successful.

If he was writing a book to instruct the lay public, there is much of value in "Opiate Addiction" (Macmillan Company), but it is the perfect treatise of the medical man, condensing a bit to his public.

He defines the trouble with what seems to be sanity and goes into the treatment exhaustively, with objectiveness and precision, but even to the person with either a humanitarian or scientific interest in the matter, it is a difficult task to wade through the discourse.

Very illuminating, however, is the comment on the current attitude on drugs, comparing it to the long outworn premise for the treatment of insanity. Dr. Williams objects emphatically to treatment of drug-addicts as criminals, and asks that they be viewed sympathetically, as unfortunate victims. He also urges not persecution of users of drugs, but public clinics where the addicts not only may obtain their drugs in steadily decreasing quantity, and thereby be cured of their disease, but where they will be free of the mauling pedler, who fattens on their infirmity.

HARRISON WRITES

EXCITING FICTION

"Saint Theresa" Has Strong

Heroine and Thrilling

Episodes.

"Saint Theresa" is another book by Henry Sydnor Harrison, and as such is sure of popularity with his public. It is the usual story now so popular these days of a lovely womanly charm, combined with rare and powerful business ability.

And there is
